

Crochet Jewelry Holder: A Small Sturdy Dish for Rings and Earrings

CrochetRooms free printable pattern

MATERIALS

- Worsted weight number 4 yarn, about 17 yards for a small holder
- G/4.0 mm crochet hook
- Yarn needle, scissors, stitch marker (optional)
- Optional: two 10 mm safety eyes and embroidery floss if making an animal-faced version

GAUGE

- Gauge is not critical for this project, but tension must stay consistent so the dish stays round and the walls stand up
- If the fabric feels floppy, go down half a hook size

FINISHED SIZE

- About 2 inches tall overall, with about 1.5 inches to the top of the cup
- Sized for rings, earrings, and small bracelets

CONSTRUCTION OVERVIEW

1. Work the dish base in continuous rounds of single crochet, using a stitch marker to mark the start of each round. Increase 6 stitches per round in the classic sequence: 6 stitches, then 12, 18, 24, and 30 stitches, stopping when the dish is wide enough for your jewelry.
2. Work one round in the back loop only to turn the corner from base to walls.
3. Work plain single crochet rounds straight up until the walls reach about 1.5 inches to the top of the cup. Keep the stitch count the same on every round so the walls stay even.
4. Optional lid: work a second flat circle with the same increase sequence to the same stitch count as the top round of the dish, so it rests neatly on top for travel.
5. Fasten off, weave in all ends on the inside so the dish stays smooth, and place the holder on your dresser. Rings sit in the cup, earrings drape over the rim, and a bracelet coils inside.

NOTES

- Written in US crochet terms, worked in the round in continuous spirals.
 - Cotton yarn gives the firmest dish; soft acrylic or chenille yarn gives a plusher feel.
 - For a decorative animal version, add safety eyes and embroidered features after the walls are complete, following the same cup construction.
